

Once again, your department chairs have submitted their annual overview of comings and goings, awards and events. We present this information in the language(s) of choice of each institution, and we include almost every tidbit of information received. As readers will quickly note, some places have more news than others. Frequently this is tied to the size of a history department and other times it is tied to what has been identified as newsworthy by a particular chair. Regardless, we hope you will appreciate the incredible variety in the reports that follow and think about what you would like your institution to include next year.

Encore une fois, vos directeurs de département nous offrent une vue d'ensemble de leurs allées et venues, prix et activités. Nous publions les renseignements que les institutions nous ont données, et ce, dans la(es) langue(s) de leur choix et nous avons inclus toute l'information soumise, dans ses plus petits détails. Comme les lecteurs pourront le constater, certaines institutions ont plus de nouvelles que d'autres. Fréquemment, c'est une question de l'importance du département d'histoire ou bien de ce qui a été identifié comme étant digne d'intérêt par un directeur en particulier. Peu importe, nous espérons que vous apprécierez cette variété incroyable dans les rapports qui suivent et réfléchirez à ce que votre institution aimerait soumettre l'année prochaine.

Sheila McManus is the department Acting Chair.

2018 has been a great year for the U of L History Department. We are particularly proud of our colleague and I-CYS director, Dr. Kristine Alexander, whose book Guiding Modern Girls: Girlhood, Empire, and Internationalism in the 1920s and 1930s, won the prestigious

Wilson Book Prize in the spring of 2018; graduate student Brendan Cummins was awarded the U of L School of Graduate Studies Medal of Merit shortly after defending his M.A. thesis on faith and power in early nineteenth century New York; and Dr. Sheila McManus became the third member of the department to receive the University's Distinguished Teaching Award.

In 2018 faculty members have published articles and chapters in a wide range of different journals and books, including The Wiley Companion to Greek Warfare; the medieval history journal Storiamente; Nine Centuries of Man: Manhood and Masculinities in Scottish History; Fighting with the Empire: Canada, Britain, and Global Conflict, 1867-1947; and The Routledge History of the Twentieth Century United States. This year alone we've presented our research at conferences from Regina to Montreal; Pullman, Washington to Tuscaloosa, Alabama; and around the world in Ireland, Norway, Poland, Portugal, New Zealand and China.

We've got a busy fall ahead. On Friday October 19 we are presenting our annual Driedger lecture: Dr. Brett Walker from Montana State University will be speaking on "A Family History of Illness: Memory as Medicine." On Thursday November 1 we are presenting our annual Alex Johnson lecture, in conjunction with the Lethbridge Historical Society: Dr. Esvyllt Jones from the University of Manitoba will be speaking on "Remembering Influenza: Western Canadian Experiences During the 1918-1919 Pandemic." And on Thursday November 22 our own Dr. Amy Shaw will present a Public Professor talk "A Devil-May-Care Sort of Swagger: A Case for Remembering Canada in the Boer War."

This fall we are also saying farewell to our colleague Dr. Heidi Macdonald, who will be starting her new job as Dean of Arts at the University of New Brunswick in January. We wish her all the best!

Events

Symposium on the Centenary of the end of WWI; Cafe Historique - a monthly historical talk at Hermann's Jazz Club; Controversial Characters in Historical Perspective, series on historical figures in the news at Victoria's City Hall. Symposium on Canada China Historical Comparisons April 2019. The Asian Canadians on Vancouver Island project has a museum exhibit circulating through community and cultural centres in BC.

The Department's Refugee Support committee welcomed a family from Eritrea and a single man from Sudan to our community this past summer in addition to the Syrian family already here.

we held a public forum on the politics of renaming and destatu- ing. The Department organized a "Blanket Exercise" for faculty and grad students to familiarize us with the history of Indige- nous Settler Relations in Canada and twice a year organizes tours led by local elders to familiarize faculty on campus with the local Indigenous communities and their histories.

Julia Roberts is the department Chair. Our number of historians employed in the department remains steady. We are 15, but that includes the current Dean of Arts, and an AVP Research, so our core teaching complement is smaller. We also benefit from the teaching and research expertise of our colleagues in the Affiliated and Federated Institutions at Waterloo (across-the-creek). Our regular faculty is now all tenured at associate and full professor.

We are currently hiring an Assistant Professor in Modern, World, Global, or Transnational History. In August, we welcomed Dr. Christopher Taylor in as a Definite Term Lecturer (2 years) who teaches primarily in the Arts First Communications Initiative, but also with us. We do not anticipate another appointment.

We had an exceptional year of recognition within the Univer- sity: Lynne Taylor won the Arts Award of Excellence in Service and Dan Gorman won the Arts Award of Excellence in Teaching. Ian Milligan has been recognized with an Andrew M. Mellon Grant, one of the few awarded in Canada.

On September 15th the department hosted the Wendy Mitchin- son Symposium, at the Balsillie School. The day was a celebration of her long and impactful career and the publication of her new book, Fighting Fat. It was attended by former graduate students - many now populating History departments across Canada - and by UW colleagues and students.

Darren Mulloy is the depart- ment Chair. There has been a decrease of 2 faculty members with the retirement of Dr. Michael Sibalis and the death of Dr. George Urbaniak. Dr. Kandace Bogaert, two-year appoint- ment as the Cleghorn Fellow in War and Society (2018-20).
